in the valley of the Dan, the fine country back of Danville and all the surrounding Counties of Virginia and North Carolina. Agencies of this description are very much needed, to call the attention of strangers to our section, which, for natural advantages of soil and climate, water power and mineral resources, is surpassed by no other portion of the South, and which offers the finest field for investment that was ever presented to those who wish to engage in farming, manufacturing, mining, or speculation. In short, I believe we have the finest country in the United States, and it will be the object of the Dan River Land Agency to bring its attractions prominently before the world. Persons residing in this portion of Virginia and North Carolina, will find it to their advantage to put their lands under my control. They shall be advertised extensively in every part of the United States, and no pains or expense will be spared to effect a sale.

ELENE ADAIR.

BY ZILNA ZERLE.

Elene Adair was a wild, reckless girl of sixteen, caring for nothing for nobody. She had no mother to give her kind and loving advice, and though her father was a good man, he did not understand the ways of bringing into the subjection wild young-lady-hood; so Elene grew up an uncultivated, untrained flower. Her old aunt sometimes remonstrated, but the more she said the worse Elene seemed to be, so the old lady did as Elder Adair did—"kept her peace;" thinking surely there comes a time when the waves of youthful fancies of their own accord break on contending rocks, and expose the deep feeling soul within.

Elene had her sports; she hunted with her dogs and her gun, fished and raced her horse when the mood seized her, which was very often. She had no companion when in school, for her nature was not like other children's. She studied well but tormented both teachers and scholars to her hearts content.

One day in June she had rambled and roamed about all day long, and coming gayly tripping to the house, passed on into the parlor, her dogs, Festus and Paul, closely following behind; her hat in her hand, hair falling loosely back, held by a comb, and turning itself into curls at the end a feverish glow on her cheeks, all combined to make her look like a gypsy sprite of the woods. On the threshold she suddenly halted, for a handsome young stranger conversed with her father, who arose and introduced him as Mr. Laster. Excusing himself to attend to his farm duties, he left Elene to entertain him, without one word as to who he was.

She was pleasant in conversation, and a good listener, which is better than a good talker; so they conversed agreeably for some time, when the church was spoken about, and Mr. Lester asked her something concerning their church in Stanton.

"Indeed, sir, I know nothing at all about the church here; it is a place I never go to." And she raised her dark restless eyes to his, and her lips curved to show the dislike she felt.

He looked at her with surprise for a few moments, then said:

"Excuse the question, but your father is an "elder," is he not?"

"Yes he is; but papa is not I, you must know."

Surprise gave away to pity in his eyes, to see one of her age and surroundings speak with such carelessness, on such a subject.

"And may I ask, Miss Adair, why you do not attend church?"

"Oh, I can easily explain that," she answered, a little nettled by his inquisitiveness; "just because I never could sit still long enough to hear a sermon for what stirring creature could sit a whole hour and listen to a preacher jumbling together words to tell the fate of mankind? and after he is through poor old Webster feels a terrific loss; all his overgrown words are gone, and these have been tied together by Latin Greek and Hebrew. And oh, such a conglomeration of wisdom: who could sit and drink it into his being! could you? she asked, looking at him roguishly.

Darwin Lester was sure then that Elene Adair did know that he was the new minister called to Staunton, and he answered firmly and emphatically.

"Yes I can listen to a sermon."

"Can you? Do you go for your own edification and improvements, or because others go? or do you like to note the last fashion out?"

"I go to preach the Gospel to men," answered Darwin with emphatic pride.

For a moment only was Elene disconcerated; she gave him one hurried glance, and the solemn firmness of his face restored her to herself and she burst into a merry laugh. Darwin Lester did not expect such a turn, because he did not yet know her. After laughing awhile she nonchalantly said, "Had I only looked at you I might have known you were a preacher, because your nose is so long.

This speech opened his eyes completely to her nature, and the lecture he was framing for her he never gave her.

"I suppose you are the new preacher? I heard papa saying something about one coming."

"I am Miss Adair; and I hope among my people there are not many like yourself."

"I am the only one; papa says so, anyhow. But, Mr. Lester let me tell you now—do not trouble me, and I'll not trouble you; for of all creatures whining preachers are the most despisable. How much I hate them never let me have cause to tell you. I wish you much joy in your undertaking here. Come Festus and Paul, let us go and feed the chickens." And off she started whistling; then she struck into a scottish song,—

"Oh whistle and I'll come to you, my lad."

A smile caressed the lines about Darwin Lester's mouth as her voice floated back to him, and he thought beneath that reckless exterior was a deep loving heart.

Life had not been all sweetness to him; she who should now have been his honored wife was another's bride, and the wound in his heart which her dagger of conquest had made was not yet healed. He was called to Stanton to preach, and he and his widowed mother would make it their home; he would stay at Elder Adair's until her coming.

Hearing voices, he volunterily arose and went to the window, and there stood Elene dispensing food to an army of poultry, and talking to them all the while; when her aunt's voice put in—

"Elene, child did you know the minister was here?"

"Qes ma'am; I saw him and talked with him; and, auntie, I cannot help thinking how much he resembles that turkey there."

Aunt Mary disappeared instanter, and Elene, laughing looked up to the window, and seeing Mr. Lester, only said—

"You do not believe it, do you?"

On Sunday he asked her if she should attend church.

"No, sir," was her candid reply.

"How shall you spend the day, Miss Adair?"

"You are very inquisitive, but, as you are a preacher, I will overlook it and tell you; in reading, writing, and having a good time in general," said she, bowing to him and leaving him alone.

As time passed on Darwin Lester could not help admiring the free grace of Elene, her honest frankness and eccentric originality. He offered to assist her in her studies. This brought them closer together; and when Mrs. Lester came, and they took possession of their beautiful cottage, which Darwin had converted into a miniature paradise by his many improvements, he still instructed Elene, and before two years passed away he found he had been conjugating the verb "Amo."

In all this time there never was a moment when he felt that he could tell her his thoughts, for ever did she love him, he knew she would say "No," and laugh at his folly for asking her love. He had sympathy for miles Standish when he said:

"A thundering No!" point blank from the mouth a woman,
That I confess I'm afraid of, nor am I ashamed to confess it."

Up to this time Elene's life had been a merry play, joy, mischief, and roguish wiles the actors; but now there came a change. Her father fell a victim to disease, and a few short days passed away from earth. She wandered through her old haunts in a dreamy way, a mere automaton; nothing seemed to amuse her, or arouse her energies. Now Darwin Lester felt courage to tell her, and put his fate in her keeping. He told her of his "youth's love dream," then of his manhoods's more perfect love. His words stirred chords in her heart that never before had vibrated; a thrill of joy passed through her being; but she looked calmly into his face and said:

"You forget your position in life. Marry a minister! I thought you knew my feelings at that direction."

The deep parlor that overspread his face made her regret her words, and she added with a smile,—

"Certainly you can forgive me for speaking so frankly, for saying.
"What I ought not to have said, yet now I can never unsay it."

"I forgive you, Elene, for I know your way. But consider it well before you answer, so frankly my question.

"No, Mr. Lester; I am tired of myself, of everything; there is nothing new, and the old haunts weary me. I shall go to New York, to my uncle; in the buzz of that great city, life will seem to flow faster, and the goal toward which all are coming will soon appear. I am wealthy, and have wealthy friends which are great passports through life. I shall keep my old home here to come back to when I have bathed in the Dead Sea of my hopes—which may never be. We are not suited to each other. Think of wedding the dashing cateract that flies from rock to rock, to the gentle, purling stream!" She looked up at him with one of her old roguish laughs and said. "Not a bad sermonizer, am I?"

Without answering her question he took both her hands in his saying—

"Elene, you are young, and building air castles, and "asking blindly of the future what it cannot give you" but when you have read this inscription Omnia vanitas, on every portal, come back; I'll wait for you—come!"

Thus they sparkled; and ere long Elene Adair was whirling in the maelstrom of New York. She dressed, danced, and coquetted to her heart's desire. Before long she began to weary of it; the glidding of her contentment was again wearing off. She knew then that she had loved Darwin Lester, and loved him yet. Between her and all the admirers his dark, pleading gray eyes would thrust themselves. His words, "I'll wait for you," were ever ringing in her ears; but "I'll never go back," she said; "I will accept Frank Houghton, and spend my life in trailing velvet robes over marble halls and velvet carpets."

When Frank Haughton came again they parte—betrothed. The dews spread fast and far. Away in Stanton they heard the story of the wealthy and handsome man Elene Adair was to marry and one in that town felt a heavier load in his heart than ever before.

Almost three years had gone, when one day in early spring Elene Adair came back to her old home. Her health could not endure the labors of fashion, and a canker was in her heart. Anger separated her and Frank Haughton, and as her love for him was very shallow a slight cause threw back the glittering soltaire to the donor, with the words.

"Take back your bundle, and with it your unrequited love."

Her dark, luminous eyes seemed the only unchanged feature in Elene, so frail and delicate had she become. Darwin Lester wept over her as he folded her in his arms and kissed her pale lips. But love cures all diseases, and in a short time there was a wedding, in Stanton, and the rosy Elene of old, wedded a minister! And her husband, looking down into the depths of her dark, loving eyes, could not help sayin—

"Elene, how much do you hate preachers?"

A tender hand covered his lips, and a pleading "Don't" was his answer.

KEYS TO SUCCESS.

A man is like a snow ball. Leave him lying in idleness against the sunny fence of prosperity, and all good that is in him melts like butter; but kick him around and he gathers his strength with every successive revolution, until he grows into an avalanche. To succeed, you must keep moving.

The world renowned Rothchilds ascribe their success to the following rules: Be off hand; make a bargain at once. Never have anything to do with an unlucky man or plan: Be cautious and bold.

David Ricardo, the celebrated political economist, had what he called his own three golden rules, the observance of which he used to press on his friends. They were: Never refuse an opinion when you can get it. Cut short your losses. Let your profits run on.

John Jacob Astor, when requested to furnish incidents of his life, replied, "my actions must make my life."

Stephen Girard's fundamental maxim was, take care of the cents, the dollars will take care of themselves."

Robert Bonner, who made a fortune in four years out of the New York Ledger, attributes his success entirely to his "persistent, repeated and generous advertising."

Amos Lawrence said, when asked for advice: "Young man, base all your actions upon a principle of right—preserve your integrity of character, and in doing this, never reckon the cost."

"Many a man has lost being a great man by splitting into two middling ones."—Phillips.

John Freedley's never-varying motto was: "Self dependence and self reliance." He says: "My observation through life satisfy me that at least nine-tenths of those most successful in business, start in life without any reliance except upon their own heads and hands—hue their own row from the jump.

Nicholas Longworth, the Cincinnati millionaire, says: "I have always had two things before me; do what you undertake thoroughly. Be faithful in all accepted trusts."

P. T. Barnum, the noted exhibitor, ascribes his success in accumulating a million of dollars in ten years, to the unlimited use of—printer's ink.

John Randolph said: "Mr. Speaker, I have found the philosopher's stone; it is—pay as you go."

A. T. Stewart, merchant prince of New York, says: "No abilities, however splendid, can command success without intense labor and persevering application."

"Half the failures in life arise from the pulling in one's horse as he is leaping.—Chapin.

"The world estimates men by their success in life, and by general consent—success is evidence of superiority."—Everitt.

There is nothing like a fixed, steady aim, with an honorable purpose. It dignifies your nature, and insures your success."

THE EMPIRE IS PEACE.

Yes, it is coming to that. The Government that any fool can blow a straw against and shatter to atoms is doomed to fall. The people need a hand clothed in iron to sway authority over them. Talk about your peace warrants! What are they? Mere dirty scraps of paper blotted and scrawled by a set of vermin that have slept under negro blankets all their lives. Do the people respect them? No! They laugh at them. They hand them around to their neighbors and all hands have a hearty laugh at the baboonish gyrations of these magisterial manuscripts. It's a devil of a Government. They that exact that another man shant steal—they steal themselves. And the result is that stealing has got to be respectable. And the people are beginning to think it a sin to punish a man for stealing. Now—look here—this state of affairs cant exist much longer. Either these no account, dirty, itch eaten, potsherd scrapers must be thrown out of office and good and honest men be appointed in their stead—or the State of North Carolina will become but a picket line of good and honest men arrayed against rogues and barn burners and black savages and midnight white sneaks and dark alley thieves and conspirators. All these scoundrels need is for men of nerve and honesty to stamp the foot and order them under the eye of the Law, (which means a rope for their villainy.) to desist from their unblushing outrages against the peace and good order of our state.

THEN let the "Powers that be" gather up the reins. Let them place an iron bit in the mouths of these maraunders. Wherever there are bad and ignorant men in office, let them appoint in their stead men who will enforce the law and command respect and obedience unto it. What if it does seem a little novel?—What if it does seem a little unrepublican? That's nothing. Republicanism of the old stripe is fast playing out. The Empire is Peace. It is coming to it. And we'd as well start ahead, so as to be up in time. There are now negro "squires" and white "squires" in Caswell and in nearly all the counties of the State who are unfit for their office and are a laughing stock to their communities. Pitch them out at once. You will save trouble—may be blood—by doing it. Do it.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Revenue, to-day near half a million.

There are ugly rumors of a coldness between Boutwell and the President.

Delano opposes the repeal of the income tax, preferring rather to relieve manufacturers.

Washington, August 30.—Southern Radical Representatives and Senators are estopped in their clamors for removals by a rider to the appropriations of 1867, forbidding assessments for political purposes or removal from office for political opinions under penalty of removal from office of the person making exactions or ordering removals.

Supervisor Stanwood, of Alabama, wants to send several of his Inspectors to the Penitentiary.

Chinese Minister Browne denies the reported rejection of the treaty, saying that final action on all treaties is deferred until Burlingame returns.

The Law Times publishes decision in the case of McLeod vs. Calcott, Treasury Agent, tried in the South Carolina Federal District Court, Chief Justice Chase presiding, to the following effect:

"No Treasury Agent is justified in receiving much less than seizing property in Southern States after June 30, 1865."

Cabinet to-morrow with Boutwell, Hoar and Robeson absent.

There were one thousand more people at Saratoga last Monday than at the same time last year.

The first bale of the new crop of cotton raised near Selma, Ala., was sold at auction in Philadelphi, Tuesday, at 40 cents per pound.

William Peters, agent of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, died Tuesday, at Chattanooga, from the effects of sunstroke.

Among the curiosities lately placed in a museum is a mosquitoe's bladder, containing the souls of twenty-four government contractors, twelve of the railroad ring, and fifteen members of the Legislature.

Little Frank was taught he was made out of dust. As he stood by the window watching this element as the wind was whirling it in eddies, he exclaimed seriously: "Ma, I thought the dust looked as though there was going to be another little boy made."

God bless our wives, they fill our hives with little bees and honey; they ease life's shocks, and mend our socks, but—don't they spend the money? When we are sick, they heal us quick—that is, if they love us; if not we die, and yet they cry with just one eye and wink the other on a sly, at some young man above us.

A romantic youth, promenading in one of our fashionable streets, picked up a thimble. He stood awhile meditating upon the probable beauty of the owner, when he pressed it to his lips saying:

"Oh! that it were the fair cheek of the wearer!"

Just as he had finished, a stout elderly negress looked out of an upper window, and said:

"Massa, just please to bring dat fimble of mine in de entry—I jist drapt it."

A gentleman travelling in Texas met on the road a wagon drawn by four oxen driven by a countryman, who, in addition to the skilful flourish and crack of the whip, was vociferously encouraging his horned horses after this fashion: "Haw Presbyterian!" "Gee Baptist!" "Whoah Episcopalian!" "Get up Methodist!" The traveler stopped the driver, remarking to him that he had strange names for his oxen, and would like to know why he thus called them. Said the driver, I call this ox Presbyterian because he is a true blue and never fails, pulls through all difficulties and holds out to the end; besides he knows more than all the rest. I call this Baptist, because he is always after water and seems as though he'd never drink enough; then again he won't eat with the others. I call this ox Episcopalian, because he has a mighty way holding his head up, and if the poke gets a little too tight, he tries to kick and draw clear out the track. I call this ox Methodist, because he puffs and blows and bellows as he goes along and you'd think he was pulling all creation, but he don't pull a pound unless you continually stir him up.

While a mother was bemoaning over her poverty, her little son said: "Mamma, I think God hears when we scrape the bottom of the barrel!"

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE Advertiser, having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c. The object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription, is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription, will please address

PLANTATION BITTERS.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

Wherever it is introduced it becomes a standard article—a medicinal staple. It is to-day the best and purest tonic, and the most popular medicine in the civilized world—be sure and get the genuine. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Country Stores.

June 23. 23—

Local Department.

From Milton

(The Editor's Correspondence.)

A revival began at Connally's meeting house last Sunday week and continued till the 23d instant There were 103 whites and 7 blicks converted. One of these converts is said to have "gone through" 15 times before.

THE TOWN MILL.

The mill that has been run here for sometime by Hunt and Walker has returned to the ownership of Jones and Fleming of Wake county. I learn that it has been rented by John Russel of Milton.

THE DROUGHT

Dry as a bone People seem out of heart in the town. Though some of the farmers are more hopeful. Mr. Hunt—an experienced farmer—says that on all low grounds that have been well worked a good crop of corn will be made. They are pretty dry about the edge of Caswell. Two wagons passed through Milton last week hauling corn and wheat to Danville to get grinding done. One of these wagons belonged to Dr. Richmond who lives on the road from Leesburg to Yanceyville.

A Curious Negro.

There passed through Milton on Monday a curious looking old negro woman. Her name is "aunt Rose" and she works down at John Oliver's. She is said to be one of the hardest working hands he has got yet she is as crazy as a loom. For years she has been taking periodical pilgrimages hunting about the country for Jefferson Davis or "Mars Jeff" as she calls him. She had two brooms under her arms that she said "Mars Jeff" told her to bring to town and she would find him there and he would buy them of her." This same old woman carried the other day a basket of provisions to her sons grave and had commenced scratching him up—declaring she knew he was hungry. She would soon have accomplished her work but was prevented by a passer by.

From Danville Va.

(Editor's Correspondence.)

Danville has had rain People still have got "big" on the brain and stir about the streets as busy as bees. Tobacco is selling well. Fifty six dollars a hundred was bid off at Holland's Warehouse and at Graves' and Crumpton's the sales were equally as good. Beef sells for ten cents here and chickens for twenty-five apiece. Owing to the scarcity of butter it has reached forty cents already.

THE PEOPLE.

Some are lively and don't care a button about the politics of the country, while many are depressed and just waiting for Canby to exact the test oath before they declare out and out for Imperialism. But still they have plenty to eat and wont let a fellow leave the table till he has got enough in his paunch to fill a soldier's haversack with two days rations, "Wood" brown for instance.

THE RIVER.

Dan River has been up here for the first time in 3 months. The water is quite muddy and much swollen from recent rains they have had up the country.

A HORNED FROG.

Flinn has a horned Texas frog at the Drug Store of H. W. Cole. It is a funny looking monster as it lies in the bottom of a glass jar alive and kicking. The thing is striped like a lizzard with little horns all over its back and is possessed of a tail about an inch and a half long. Clifton Davis, formerly of this place, sent the frog from Independence, Texas, to Flinn, in a sealing powder box. It was on the way 12 days. Has never eaten the first thing yet and still is as lively as a cricket.

THE NEGROES.

Some are working and behaving themselves. Others are mad on the subjects of religion and politics and of course steal. To show the degeneracy of the race, a negro baby—new born—was found in a hog's mouth the other day on Main Street. The hog was chased and made to drop it. One arm was eaten off. They placed a newspaper over it and laid it on the street smelling loud of African barbarity till it was shovelled off to the bone yard.

From Richmond

(Editor's Correspondence.)

Arrived 11 A. M. Am putting up at the Ballard John P. Ballard is dressing his house up in splendid style. He has a corps of painters at work on the inside and it will soon be one of the handsomest hotels in the United States. Saw Coleman of the Examiner to-day. He was looking well and there's but one thing the matter—he "orter marry."

THE CROPS

Along the road from Danville I saw but one piece of tobacco that promised a fine crop. From South Boston to Keysville they have had good rains but most too late to do much good. And from Keysville to Richmond the corn looks pale and wretched. Not a drop of rain has cooled the air or moistened the parched up earth.

THE TRAIN.

The Danville road is getting a good travel. The cars were pretty well filled. Among the passengers were merchants from southern and upper Georgia going to New York to buy goods. There were also merchants from South Carolina. There were few ladies on the train. But one of them was painted so thick that a fly would have mired on her cheek. Captain Dame was the gentlemanly conductor in charge.

RICHMOND.

No people are working harder than these Richmond folks. Their backbone is as tough as when they used to risk a pound of Grant's shot and shell to sell a pound of country produce. Let our people encourage these men. They can sell them goods just as cheap as they can get them North. If this be so a true Southern man should always first try this market.

THE MARKET.

Butter consigned to this place brings 35 cents. The very best Peruvian Guano is $92 80 per ton; Baugh's Phosphate is $76,09 per ton. The Powhatan Raw Bone is $50.00 per ton. This is said to be an admirable manure and when mixed with the Peruvian Guano makes a super excellent phosphate. Tobacco is selling well. On Wednesday a lot was sold at the Exchange for 102 dollars per hundred. Peaches that are shipped to Richmond from up the country sell for one dollar and a half a box. A box generally holds about 3 pecks. Large watermelons can be bought here for 15 cents.

Richmond.

(Editor's Correspondence.)

Detective Craddock of Richmond has just returned from a visit to Yanceyville. He was sent for there by Capt. Mitchell to see if he couln't ferret out the scoundrels who have lately stolen $400 from his safe and made an attempt to burn him out. The detective made no progress because he says they furnished him with no clue. Only told him that on Wednesday evening before the fire a white man and a negro were seen coming in to Yanceyville and on Thursday morning before day they were seen going out by the Danville road. The fire occurred at two o'clock on Thursday morning. The detective carried a negro man along with him who is in the habit of "using" with him in these hunts, and he says that while they were stopping in Danville this negro told him he had just seen a negro who was an escaped penitentiary convict. The detective made the matter known to the police of that town.

From Our Flat River Correspondent.

Still dry this 26th of August. Slight showers have passed here and there, giving some relief, but the growing time for the main crops is over and the bright anticipations of farmers are changed to disappointment. But it is not all failure. Our bottom land corn is good, and a few have fine fields of tobacco.

The coal-curing began last week and will go on constantly until the season closes. People think there is money in it. Well, it is perhaps fortunate that they are hopeful. I know two gentlemen who appear to make money at it—several more who succeed well enough 'to get along' and a large number who, notwithstanding tobacco and everything else, fail to "make the ends meet," without stretching unto breaking. Tobacco is a smoky institution. The plantbeds are born in smoke; coal-curing is a system of smoke treatment; chewing tobacco makes a man look like he breathed too much smoke; smoking it is so completely a matter of smoke that if you don't see the smoke, you can't say that you do smoke; and according to recent history the fortunes that are made on tobacco generally end in smoke.

Little Dick is a Flat River urchin of sable hue. He loves candy overmuch. Like a dusky goblin he glided up stairs, got a bolster, filled it with Miss——'s dresses and Dr——'s coat and Capt.——'s children's apparel and quilt fringe and sold them to the Captain's clerk for rags. Dick got much candy—much whipping—and drew deep solace from the fact, as he expressed it, that if he was whipped, he "was sweet inside one time."

Speaking of rags, I would like to know who carried that miraculous sack of them to Brown. I saw them when emptied, and behold they were part "granite." Now sir, who ever knew rags to petrify so soon? Isn't it wonderful? Let it be investigated.

The Baptist are holding an association at Knap of Reeds this week—the crowd is immense.

A fine revival last week at New Bethel on Orange Circuit. A large number of converts. Large Sunday School Convention is to be held at Mount Bethel on the 8th of September. A. H. Merritt of Chatham is to be one of the speakers. He is a rising man.

Fertilizers.

We advise those of our farmers who are in need of fertilizers to read the advertisement of our friends Hill, Bentley and Skinker of Richmond and to send their orders immediately to them. These gentlemen have taken a start of the season and are prepared to furnish the up country trade with guano of all sorts at the most favorable prices

The Drought in 1833.

Thomas Lee, Esq.—a son of Judge Lee of Halifax county (Va) remembers a drought in 1833 in which it didn't rain on his father's plantation from June till December. And 45 barrels of corn was about the yield of his plantation.

Struck.

Josh Billings near Danville hasn't exactly struck "ile" but in digging a well on his lot he has found some kind of a mineral that is exciting general curiosity in Danville. It is perfectly soft, of a whitish look, and of a greasy texture. There was a large vein of it.

Farm Hard Scraps.

For the Recorder.

Mr. Editor: Will you let me make a suggestion or two to our Farmers in Orange. I deeply sympathise with them in the painful trials of this season—The continued drought will make their crops of corn very short and give us all another year of pinching want. The wheat crop is a better one than has been made for several years past—husband it with your best care. Sell and use it with great prudence—selecting the best of it for your seed wheat. At once make large preperation for a turnip crop. The land is too hard to plow now but free it of weeds surface stones and haul out all the barn yard manure, the scrapings of yards and ash heaps. When the rain shall come be prepared to start your 2 horse turning plow—let it be followed by a 2 horse coulter or sub soil plow, so as to thoroughly break up the hard pan and make the entire surface of your turnip ground an open sponge—placing your soil fully under the influence of the enriching principles of the atmosphere and rain. It is impossible to make the pulverization too perfect and you would do well to cross plow your turnip land with both plows as suggested above—and then harrow it. If you are scarce of labor seed your turnips broadcast—and at the same time or before the harrowing put on any fertilizer you may wish to use No. 1. Peruvian Guano with one third plaster that is two of Guano and one of plaster, putting one and a half pounds of turnip seed to the acre. Turnips sown broadcast do not yield ordinarily so large a crop as sown in the drill. In England it is the great crop for feeding cattle and sheep during the early winter months and in that country as much as 24 000 lbs to the acre exclusive of the leaves has often been gathered. In England the sizes of the drill are from 18 to 20 inches apart—and my general reading as well as my own observation teaches that turnips do best on a sandy soil mixed with clay: neither too dry or too wet. Success in turnip culture depends on the character of the soil its preperation and a soft rain immediately after the seed is committed to the ground goes very far towards perfecting a success. It will improve your chances of success in a crop sown broadcast should weeds or grass come up quickly with your turnip seed to harrow the ground lightly after the turnip has become well seated in the ground—and if the crop shall be attacked by caterpillars or other insects this harrowing will tend much to expel them and free the plant from damage. I do not advise it but if you desire a fine lot of clover near your barns or stables you will hardly fail on a piece of land properly prepared for turnips if you will put on 10 lbs of red clover seed at the same time you seed your turnips broadcast. Of course it will not do to seed clover with turnips in the drill as they should be well hued and plowed to attain the best results. The man that makes the largest provision for turnips will in all probability be best able to feed and fatten his hogs and cows his cattle and sheep safely through the winter. And if he will feed his stock under a roof he will be astonished at the quantity and quality of his pile of manure.

It may be that you may save something like your equal crop of fodder—but that is hardly possible and it must be light and of little value. Take then the advice of one who has tried it, prepare from one to five acres of your best land near your stables or cow yard—plow it as advised for turnips—make it clean—dry and rich and if you have a choice as between sandy or clay soil take the sandy soil and seed it at least one bushel of clean seed rye to the acre—and seed it just as soon as possible after you have your crop of turnips in the ground, you may have your sythe blade in order for use by the 15th or 20th of March—and you will have a full supply of rich green food for your teams and if you will give your milk cows a good supply of it, your wife will tell you that she never made such beautiful butter in March and April nor ever had one fourth of the milk in her pails and pans. And with the rye you may sow with perfect certainty of success 10 lbs of Red clover seed and one half bushel of orchard grass seed but I would like better 4 or 5 lbs of Timothy. And to make the month of August one of the most profitable of the year and to enable you to protect yourself as far as possible from the disasters of this afflictive drought prepare from one to four acres just as advised for turnips—but if possible put the coulter or subsoil plow in 5 or 6 inches deeper and as soon as you have your turnips and rye in the ground put on this last prepared lot 10 lbs of Lucerne seed, and you will be prepared many of you to feed your cattle and hogs and horses as you never fed them before. In seeding these light and very small seed the Turnip and Lucerne seed—be careful not to cover them too deep—the slightest covering with a brush is all that is required.

Take my advice, try these suggestions on a liberal scale—let your ploughing be thorough—your pulverization perfect—your manuring generous, if you choose extravagant, and I will undertake to say if the farmers of Orange will so act we shall see more milk and butter, fatter horses and hogs than we have had in Orange in a great while—but dont go into it unless you come up to the standard herein advised. I have a small plow made I think by Mr. Murdock of Hillsboro, I purchased it at a sale for $1. 50 cts, it is the best plow I ever saw for the preperation of a clay soil, and if I could not supply its place again I would not take $500 in greenbacks as bad as they are wanted. But the new ground coulter with a four inch foot will supply you with a most efficient tool. If however your land is old and free from rocks and roots it would be better to make the coulter foot 6 inches wide—and better of steel than of iron. Empty corn cribs and empty smoke houses are becoming too common with our people. Want makes crime and criminals. Plenty brings peace comfort and integtity—To the utmost of your I may say our capacity, let us guard against the consequences of this fatal drought. FARMER.

P. S. I take it as certain that the intelligent and wide awake farmer will keep his plow in constant motion as soon as he can plow in seeding crops of small grain—and if he be wise—on clay soils he will seed oats and on sandy soil rye—silex or sand is essential to rye. When I speak of 10 lbs of Clover seed—I mean to the acre—and 20 as to Lucern seed.

If Peruvian Guano and Plaster is not to be had for your Turnip crop—then let me tell you that those intelligent providers for public wants either for the mind or body—Captain Robert Bingham at Mebanesville and H. N. Brown at Hillsboro will furnish you at or about cost and charges with Baughs Phosphate of lime that is very little superior to No. 1. Peruvian Guano—In either or both. I say good luck to the Farmer who seeks to provide liberally for the wants of his household and cattle—and to protect himself against the distress of drought and seasons. Speed the plow—though carpet baggers and scallawags succeed. F.

which, for convenience of situation, construction and its fine Sky-light cannot be excelled in this Market.

We have an Excellent Wagon-Yard, where your stock will be perfectly secure.

We have also, a good house for our customers to sleep in.

We have associated with us, Mr. Wm. T. Law, so long and favorably known to the planters around Danville, as to need no recommendation.

We take pleasure in returning our thanks to our friends for the very liberal support we have received, and hope by prompt personal attention to our business, to continue to merit and receive the patronage of our friends and the public.

WM. P. GRAVES,
THOS. R. McDEARMAN,
WM. T. LAW.

CAUTION! WE desire to warn the dealers in, and consumers of snuff generally, that since the war, certain tobacco manufacturers, being unable to find a market for their snuffs, felt themselves obliged to counterfeit the general appearance of our packages, and imitate our Trade Marks, so that a close inspection is necessary to detect the spurious article from the genuine, and others going so far as to assert that "Lorillard's Snuff is no longer made."

In making this publication we desire to warn the public against the impositions practiced upon them; as they are the losers thereby. It will be found upon comparison that Lorillard's Snuff is "far ahead" of all others, being made of the best stock, after an original and secret process known only to ourselves, besides possessing great age, strength and pungency, and is warranted not to contain any dangerous or deleterious substances, which cannot be said of the many worthless articles put on sale by others. The best is the cheapest in the end. A circular will always be mailed on application. In ordering please specify if Salt Snuff (High Toast,) or Fresh Snuff (Extra Scotch) is desired.

TO THOSE SUFFERING WITH PULMONARY DISEASE.

DR. THOMAS H. MILES, continues to treat Thoracic diseases by Topical Medication, or Catheterism of the air passages, conjoined with appropriate general remedies, as practiced by the late Prof. Green, of New York. The success attending this method of treating diseases of the lungs, is unparralleled, and the feasibility of the operation generally conceded. This treatment is almost a specific Bronchitis, Laryngitis, incipient Tuberculosis and Asthma. Numerous testimonials can be adduced from those who have been entirely relieved by the operation. His address is Mount Carmel, Halifax county, Va.

Near Yanceyville, Caswell co., N. C.
April, 1869.

This is to certify that I have been suffering for several years with chronic Bronchitis; attended with all the symptoms of incipient Consumption; during this period, I had frequent hemorrhages from the lungs. I also suffered greatly from enlarged Tonsils. I tried the usual remedies in such cases, but without satisfactory results. I finally concluded to try Dr Miles' treatment of cauterizing the air passages by injection. I remained under his treatment for six weeks: rejoice to say that I believe my lungs are entirely relieved. I will say that excision of the tonsils added greatly to my relief. I most cheerfully recommend this treatment to all persons similarly afflicted.

A MOST WONDERFUL AND SUCCESSFUL INVENTION!

New Method of Washing Clothes without Labor.

THE AUTOMATIC

Clothes Washer and Boiler.

Awarded the highest Testimonial wherever Exhibited.

REV. M. W. STAPLES, Inventor and Patentee.

THIS BOILER is self-acting, and dispenses entirely with labor and the wear of clothes. The hot suds and steam by the action of fire, are driven up through tubes, poured upon the clothes, and forced through the fabric with astonishing rapidity, cleansing it perfectly without any rubbing. It has been thoroughly tested, and pronounced unequalled as a Clothes Washer, by those who have used it.

All fabrics, from the finest laces to the bed-blanket can be washed perfectly and with ease and without the aid of the rubbing board. For Flannels it is invaluable, as the rubbing, rolling and pressing process must necessarily hurt them more or less.

It is truly a labor and clothes saving invention. Washing will no longer be a hardship, and washing day no longer a terror and a dread to housewives.

The invention can be used in any boiler, and the low price of the article places it within the reach of every family.

The saving in the wear of clothes will soon pay for the outlay.

It is estimated that 200 to 300 gallons of boiled suds pass through the clothes in thirty minutes; this being the longest time required for cleansing a boiler full of clothes.

Hundreds of these Boilers are being sold each week, giving perfect satisfaction.

Every boiler sold guaranteed to do all we claim, or money refunded.

The undersigned, as Agent for J. B. Hunter & Co., of Portsmouth, Va., (who have the right for this State) has commenced the Manufacture of these Boilers and will furnish the citizens of Orange and Chatham, and will, as stated above, take back and refund money for any Boiler which fails to give perfect satisfaction, and do all claimed for it.
